“What’s On Your Mind?”

This image shows the Facebook post creation interface. At the top, there are three tabs: 'Status' (selected), 'Photo / Video', and 'Event, Milestone +'. Below the tabs is a large text input area with the placeholder text 'What's on your mind?'. At the bottom, there are icons for adding a clock (past), a location pin (location), and a globe (privacy). The privacy is currently set to 'Public'. A blue 'Post' button is on the right.

The Teacher's Guide To Twitter

Twitter has proven itself to be an indispensable tool for educators around the globe. Whatever skill level you may be, Twitter is downright fun and worth your time. So here's a useful guide that we curated from Edudemic's archives in an effort to put something together that was a bit easier to read than random blog posts. We hope you enjoy and will be regularly adding to this guide so feel free to leave your ideas down in the comments or by, what else, tweeting us @edudemic anytime!

Our Biggest Twitter Tips For Teachers

For many teachers making a foray into the edtech world, Twitter is an excellent tool for consuming and learning. There are a number of great resources out there to help teachers follow people who will be useful to them based on location, subject, grade level, and technology being used.

Many are also harnessing Twitter as a part of their PLN (personal learning network) to connect, share, and network. So how do you bridge the gap from reading tweets in your feed to truly harnessing the power of Twitter in the edtech realm?

do this. I pray that you would experience me with joy and laughter and patience starting now and continuing till, well, till I die, but at least for the next 20 years till these kids are grown up. I am scared. I cannot see what it will be like, and I cannot control it, and I am very, very afraid.

Dear One — I do not want to be up.

I slept that my body aches, it's hard to get enough air in my lungs, and I am tired even though I just woke up. I know it's easier to be pregnant than to be a mother squalling and crying and inconsolable. I know this and yet — I am so uncomfortable and so tired... which makes it seem like not being pregnant anymore is a good thing. Not a panacea, but different at least. Those first weeks were so loggy and wretched — but by the seventh or eight post-partum I will at least have the baby down. And then it just be a matter of them learning how to sleep at night but once we figure out...

Define Purpose:

Promotional/Sharing?

Event Invitations?

Professional Learning? - LISTS & HASHTAGS

Collaboration? (If so - for what purpose?)

Community Expert Connections?

Resource Development?

How about an answer to a question???

Define Measures of Success:

#Followers?

of Engagements?

of Retweets?

of Chats?

Does it lead to a culminating event?

Do you own questionnaires that will measure success?

Twitter (/'twɪtər/) is an online social networking service that enables users to send and read short 140-character messages called "tweets".

Registered users can read and post tweets, but unregistered users can only read them. Users access Twitter through the website interface, SMS, or mobile device app.

Use a class hashtag

<https://twitter.com/pbeens/lists/otf-curriculum-forum>

<https://goo.gl/cH4IGt>

- Keep tweets short enough they can be retweeted
- Put your favourites in a list and bookmark that list
- Use a website (or app) such as Hootsuite to make your experience more efficient
- Don't tweet what you ate
- Retweet (RT) interesting tweets, but don't only retweet
- Use lists to let you focus on certain users
- Use hashtags to focus on certain conversations
 - #OTFCF
 - #OntEd
 - #OnICS
 - #CSK8
- Start small, and put everyone you follow in a private, relevant list
- Do not be a complainer
- Tweet questions to encourage conversations
- Post at the best times (I use Buffer App or <https://buffer.com>)
- Tweet regularly
